One of the big features of this school is a large gymnasium equipped with a modern stage and settings. This room is designed for use as an auditorium or assembly hall as well as for gym purposes.

The structure is entirely fireproof with exception of the roof and floors. Fire extinguishers and a fire hose system has been installed to provide adequate fire protection.

The very latest appliances for heating and ventilating have been installed as well as sanitary drinking fountains and closets.

A special system of lockers have been built into each room. These lockers are so arranged that the clothing is thoroughly aired and warmed.

Electric lights are placed in all the rooms, halls, stage, etc.

The heating plant is of the latest in design and utility. An electric pump is used to pump all drainage water from a pit into a drain.

The grounds surrounding the school will be beautified this summer and a system of winding concrete walks will also be built.

The balance of this school year will be held in the old school house but the commencement and graduating exercises will be held in the new school.

Brotherhood Of St. John's Will Sponsor Supper

The Brotherhood is hard at work making arrangements for a big public chicken supper and a free entertainment for all, to be given on Thursday, June 6th. The men of the brotherhood are giving a play after the supper and we are sure that all of you are interested and are anxious to see the man act. The affair is in the hands of a committee, consisting of Messrs. Albert Braun, Chas. Erickson, Peter Mancke and Albert Strassenberg. The men who will do the cooking are: Chief Cook Albert Braun, Assistant cooks John Mattes, Edward Martie, Albert Strassenberg, Albert Cappel and Henry Schoeneck. These men know how to cook and they will prepare a feast for the public and a show on top of it, which the public cannot enjoy anywhere in the U. S. Mark the date, Thursday, June 6th, and be there.

Gas Explosion Causes Injury And Damage

Ed A. Steinhagen, Mokena serviceman of the Public Service Co. of northern Illinois, was slightly injured on Friday of last week by an explosion of gas in the basement of a home of A. Wachter, First and Neithammer Streets. Steinhagen, a minor burns about the face were immediately dressed by Dr. E. G. McMahon.

The accident, according to gas engines of the Public Service Co., was most unusual one. The actual leak of the gas main occurred at the corner of Front and Neithammer Streets, but the escaping gas found its way through a drain tile into the basement of the Wachter home, a block away. The Wachter family, noting the odor, summoned Steinhagen, who inadvertently ignited the gas while attempting to locate the leak in the basement.

The resultant explosion blew out the windows on the south and west sides of the building and knocked the plaster off of a number of rooms and loosened a number of concrete blocks in the basement wall and entrance.

Flsher System To Be Installed At Tinley Park

The Rock Island railroad is planning on doing away with flagmen at grade crossings in villages and installing the flasher system instead.

A Tinley Park council meeting Monday night Rock Island officials were present and asked the board for their permission to make such a change at the crossing in the village of Tinley Park and the council voted in favor of the flasher system. The signal device will be in operation day and night. It will be located in the center of the paving near the crossing. It is understood that the systems will be installed in other towns along the line.

Mokena School Team Winner

Friday afternoon, May 3, the Mokena school baseball team again triumphed over the Monee High School team at Monee, by a score of 4 to 1. It was a ball game from the first ball pitched until the last. Monee, at all satisfied with the drubbing she had from Mokena a week previous, played real baseball and gave our boys the closest and finest game they have ever had.

Marti started things off in the first by hitting the first ball pitched for a single to right field. Muff then struck out and Marti stole second. Warning then got a two base hit over short and Marti scored. Hommerding grounded out to short and Hearn fanned. In Monee's half of the first Holl walked and Tritt fanned. Plague then singled, and advanced Holl to third. Plague then advanced to second on the first ball pitched to Rehberg. With two on and only one down, Paddy struck out both Rehberg and Egdorf, retiring the side. Score, Mokena 1, Monee 0.

In the second for Mokena, Walsh fanned, Brown walked, and McGovney fanned. Cappel then grounded to Brockmiller for the third out. Paddy got a one, two, three in Monee's half of the second striking out Peters, Schweissow and Brockmiller. Score, Mokena 1, Monee 0.

In the third Marti grounded out to Plague and Muff grounded out to Holl. Warning produced his second hit in two times at bat, and Hommerding followed with a double advancing Warning to third. Hearn then sent one deep out to right field where Schweissow fumbled it and both Warning and Hommerding scored. Walsh then grounded out to Plague for the third out. Smith for Monee struck out and Holl grounded just in front of the plate, but Brown cut him off at first. Tritt again fanned retiring the side. Score, Mokena 3, Monee 0.

Brown coming up for Mokena in the fourth struck out, McGovney walked and Cappel struck out. Marti then got his second hit in three times up, a single thru third, advancing McGovney to second. It was wasted, however, for Muff struck out allowing both McGovney and Marti to die on base. Monee started things in the fourth. Plague walked, and Rehberg was hit by a pitched ball. With two on and none down Egdorf got a two base hit, scoring Plague and advancing Rehberg to third. Paddy then tightened up and struck out Peters and Schweissow. Brockmiller then singled scoring Rehberg and Egdorf.

The Town Doctor

SAYS

SOME TOWNS, LIKE TRUCKS, GET STUCK IN THE MUD

There is something about the building of a highway that is, to me, as a magnet to steel. When driving through the country, a "Road Under Construction" sign is a near command to drive around the barrier, and learn if the notice is telling the truth.

There is something majestic and awe-inspiring about the laying of a ribbon of concrete across a plain, through the valleys, or over the hills. Perhaps it is not the actual construction as much as the value of what the completed work will be to the communities it will serve, wondering if those it will benefit will take advantage of the opportunity.

The paving of a country road is an epoch in the life of the area thru which it passes, for it marks the passing of the old into the new, and to me, a changing from the old order of things is always of interest.

Last fall, while making what has been spoken of as a "clinic journey", I obtained permission to drive a twelve-mile strip of newly-laid concrete through the Palos Hills country in Illinois. It was a beautiful roadway in a beautiful country, and I could but marvel at the thoroughness-the perfect contour of this "sidewalk for motor cars" to hillside, vale and woodland - - - it was perfect.

Some miles from the convergence of this roadway with the main arterial highway, a large force of workmen with a score of dump trucks were making a fill. Trucks loaded with loose earth came from both directions; systematically they swung to the edge, half circled to the center of the pavement, then backed; a whistle blew, the truck stopped, the dump body tipped as the end gate opened; another whistle, and the truck moved out and on up the road. For an hour I watched them as like giant ants they came and went, filling the hole that was bad for the highway.

Then something happened. A monstrous truck, very heavily loaded, backed up too far, went off the pavement and down the embankment settling deep in the wet, loose, spongy loam. It was STUCK - - no doubt about it!

A loud whistle blew - trucks outbound stopped, swung around, and returned to fill; inbound trucks drew up in a line. Chains rattled as each hitched to the other - a workman slid down to the truck in the mire, attached a chain thereto, and a whistle blew thrice. At the first whistle, all trucks moved forward taking up the slack, at the second, gears meshed into low, at the third, every clutch of every truck was engaged, and without jump or jerk, all, as one, moved forward, steadily, surely, until the stuck truck was back on solid pavement. There was no fuss, dissension, excitement or bluster - - all of the trucks pulled, NONE was standing at the side of the road, idling, watching or shouting advice; all pulled in the SAME direction at the SAME TIME.

The moral is plain. If your town is "stuck" - - if it isn't moving forward, gather 'round, everybody, hook on, get a sure "hitch", then PULL TOGETHER - - in the same direction.

Smith then fanned. Score, Mokena 3, Monee 3.

In the fifth Warning failed to repeat the efforts of his first and second times up, but took the one, two, three for the first out. Hommerding then walked, stole second and advanced to third on Hearn's sacrifice to short. Walsh then knocked one over center for two bases, scoring Hommerding. Brown hit one, then to Egdorf at second but it was too hot, and Brown got credit for a single. Walsh "did not choose to run" on Brown's hit, but tried on the next ball pitched to steal third and was caught for the third out. Holl coming up for Monee struck out and Tritt drove a long one to deep left where Warning camped under it. Plague "also fanned" retiring the side. Score, Mokena 4, Monee 3.

McGovney coming up in the sixth drove one deep into center. Smith got under it, alright, but let it drop, and McGovney was safe at first. Cappel then flew out to Peters, and Marti grounded to Brockmiller, forcing McGovney at second. Muff then fanned in the third out. Paddy got three more in Monee's half of the sixth. Rehberg, Egdorf and Peters all three "looked 'em over" and took the count. Score, Mokena 4, Monee 3.

Warning got his third hit of the day in the seventh, a single between first and second. It was wasted, however, for Hommerding grounded to short, forcing him at second. Horn then struck out. Hommerding stole second, and Walsh ended Mokena's part of the game by striking out. With Monee's weak end of the batting order coming up in the last of the seventh, Paddy had nothing to fear. Schweissow struck out and Brockmiller popped to Paddy. Smith then ended it all by the one, two, three route and Mokena had won another ball game. Final score, Mokena 4, Monee 3.

Executive Com. Chosen For Big S. W. Survey

A very interesting meeting was held in the Orland Park High School Auditorium Tuesday evening regarding the organization of a committee to carry on the survey of the Southwest Suburban territory including the towns of Lockport, Lemont, Orland Park, Mokena, Palos Park, Worth and Tinley Park.

Rev. Paul T. Sanders of Orland Park who is largely instrumental in getting this survey under way, was the chairman of the evening. He pointed out the many important factors in the proposed survey and among them was the question of how much of the present business found in the towns mentioned will survive the encroachment of the chain stores, the city stores, etc., as this section becomes more suburbanized. Many other vital subjects were touched on. It was decided to have an executive committee to be composed of representatives of each local committee. The following officers were then chosen for the executive committee:

Chairman, Paul T. Sanders, Orland Park.
Secretary, Mrs. Ella Loebe, Orland Park.

Treasurer, John Carroll, President of the Hyde Park Bank.

Chairmen were appointed for each of the towns represented at the meeting Tuesday evening: Mokena, L. G. Bruder; Lockport, Mr. Millne; Markham, Winfield Roesner; Orland Park, Mayor Jennings; Palos Park, Mayor Tourtelot; Midlothian, Mr. Packard.

The next meeting will be held on next Tuesday night in the school house in District 142 opposite the Midlothian Golf Club grounds.

Mokena was represented by L. G. Bruder, Mrs. J. V. Hall, Wm. Semmler, Mr. and Mrs. Steele. Midlothian was especially well represented.

The proposed survey will call for program of from five to ten years duration.

Next Week Is Clean Up Week For Tinley Park

Tinley Park will have its second annual cleanup next week. The people of the village are requested to place all the old tin cans, broken bottles, glass and other junk in barrels, sacks or boxes and place in a convenient place to be picked up by the cleanup truck. No garbage is to be placed in with the rest of the rubbish as it will not go in with the rest of the rubbish. Mr. Dini has the hauling of the rubbish and will haul the rubbish away off and on during all of next week. Get your rubbish ready now.

MAN AND WIFE FLEE FROM BURNING TINLEY HOME IN NIGHT GARB

The new Elmore subdivision on the south side of Tinley Park had a serious fire last Thursday night when one of the new homes caught fire and burned to the ground. A couple from Chicago had moved in about four days before the fire.

It was about 11 o'clock Thursday night when the husband was awakened by a crackling sound and saw an adjoining room ablaze. He ran into the kitchen and got a pail and began throwing water on the fire. Suddenly he noticed the entire ceiling was ablaze. He rushed out of doors. His wife jumped thru the bedroom window. All the household goods, clothing, etc., was destroyed. The couple only saved the night clothes they wore. The Tinley Park chemical truck responded but the dwelling was doomed, so the firemen turned chemical on nearby chicken houses which were in danger of catching fire. The cause of the fire is unknown.

During the fire a gas stove exploded and a part of the stove was hurled 100 feet away.

TINLEY POLICE CHIEF RE-HIRED

A large crowd of citizens of Tinley Park attended the village council meeting Monday night when the report was out that Officer George Smith was going to be dismissed.

Those objecting to Officer Smith remaining on the force were given an opportunity to voice their objections, but the many friends of Officer Smith insisted that he be hired again so the police committee re-engaged him for the next thirty days and then with the privilege of a longer period. The residents feel that Tinley must have a motorcycle copper in order to deal with the speeders. The arrests made by Officer Smith bring in quite a tidy sum of fine money to the village each month which comes in handy to the village treasury.

Tinley Legion Preparing For Big Dance

The Tinley Park American Legion Post is actively preparing for the big dance they will stage at the Saenger Hall, Tinley Park, June 1. Music will be furnished by the Purple Parrots.

ASK WOLF ROAD RIGHT OF WAY BE DONATED

Fred A. Francis, chairman and the members of the Will County bond issue committee and County Superintendent of Highways Will H. Smith called in Mokena Friday in regard to the surveying of Wolf Road preparatory to the paving of same and advised that before any survey work can be started the committee would have to have the assurance that the required right of way can be secured and the land for the right of way must be donated before any survey work can be done. Mr. Francis explained that the county cannot purchase the right of way for county bond issue roads, but only for state bond issue roads. There is no provision made in the present county bond issue authorizing the county to buy any right of way.

Chairman Fred A. Francis has written the following letter to L. G. Bruder, chairman of the Mokena Development Association regarding the paving of Wolf Road:
Mr. L. G. Bruder, Mokena, Ill.
Dear Sir: Your letter received some time ago, but have delayed in answering same on account of the reorganization of the County Board, and waiting for the outcome of the suit pending on the Bond Issue. These both being settled now.

In regard to Wolf Road, will say there is no possible chance of it being built this year, as several reasons cannot possibly be overcome this summer. The sewer proposition is one. I was in Elgin yesterday consulting Mr. Lamb. Wolf Road has to be 100 feet wide, which in all probability will cause some trouble. But I assure you we will try and get it surveyed this summer and see just where we do stand on it.

Very truly yours,
FRED A. FRANCIS,
Chairman Bond Issue Committee

It is probable that a mass meeting of the property owners along Wolf Road will be called in the very near future to discuss plans for securing the right of way.

With the shattered army in a wild rout the Onondaga and I fell back to the wagons where I had left the girl. I stepped over a man dying from arrow wounds and would have left him had I not recognized him as Busby, my old playmate. This was a sorry ending of all our boyish dreams, when we played at Indian fighting and always emerged the victors. For love of the old days, I caught him around the shoulders and yelled for the Onondaga to pick him up by the heels. The Indian had no desire to interrupt his fighting by helping one as good as dead. Yet he would not leave me, and he did as I directed, and we managed to get Busby to the first wagon.

Busby stared at me vacantly at first, then knew me, and tried to pull me down to him. I kneeled and he faintly whispered: "What d—d fools we've been, Web. Tell Joe I'm sorry."

It was his last effort, and he was dead when I straightened up. The savages were now assaulting the wagons from both sides. We fought our way through the terribly unequal melee. It did look as if not a man would survive the day unless it be some of those who had taken to trees outside the road, or who had cut the horses loose from the wagons and had fled at the beginning of the battle.

Dunbar the Tardy was still in the rear. It was just as well. The more men crowding into the road simply meant more victims.

"This way, Brond! Brown-hair's here!" howled a voice in my ear. Cromit was speaking. His mouth was fixed in a ghastly grin, his eyes set and staring. He was bleeding from a wound in the head.

"This is a severe wring," he shouted, and fired a soldier's musket at a painted face showing at the side of a tree.

Then with a sneer that sounded above the groans and shrieks of the wounded and the yells of the savages, he dived into the bushes. The next moment he staggered back into the road, with a knife buried in his breast, and yet dragging after him a stalwart Ottawa he had clutched by the throat.

The two fell at our feet, and with a final effort Cromit tore the red throat open; and so the two died and went among the ghosts.

Dan Morgan was down and the witch-girl was standing over him, an ax in one hand, her pistol in the other.

"Get out of here! Go to the river!" I cried to her.

"Can't leave him," she panted. "Kiss me, mister!"

"I kissed her, believing it was very close to the last act in my life. And I pitied her as I had never pitied any one in my life. Morgan got up on his knees. He had been shot through the back of the neck, the ball passing through his mouth and taking several teeth with it. He gained his feet and pushed the girl toward us.

"Must git boss!" he told me as I seized the girl and began working my way along the wagons. Many of the drivers already were in flight, each to announce himself to be the only survivor of the massacre, and I despaired of securing an animal for the girl.

Morgan went ahead; after the girl came the Onondaga and myself. Round Paw endeavored to shield her from the cross-fire of the hidden savages. He reeled, then raised his war-whoop and swung his ax, and I saw the white paw on the chest was turning crimson.

A wounded Potawatomi rolled from the bushes like a dying snake and coiled about his legs in an attempt to trip him and bring him to the ground. Round Paw quieted him with a swing of the ax and shouted:

"Yo-hah! It is good. They say two very brave men will soon die! Yo-hah!" Then in a mighty voice he told the concealed foe:

"I am a man of the Wolf clan. My teeth are sharp. Ho! Ho! Come on and help a brave man die like a chief."

back of the crazed brute. Morgan motioned for me to mount.

"Take her out of this! For G—d's sake lose no time!" I cried.

"She sorter seems to like you—" he began, but I lifted him up and placed him behind her and struck the horse on the flank with my rifle-barrel.

I knew she cried out although I could not hear what she said. She made to dismount, but young Morgan passed an arm around her slim waist, and the horse plunged down the road toward the ford. But I shall never forget the expression of her small face as she stared helplessly back at me and the Onondaga.

During this brief bit of action the Indian had been wounded again, this time in the head. We fell back, shoulder to shoulder. An arrow whipped into my arm and the Onondaga broke off the quivering shaft. Arrow or bullet raked my forehead and threatened to fill my eyes with blood had I not snatched a neck-cloth from a dead man's neck and improvised a bandage.

The savages were now overrunning the first division of wagons, succumbing to their lust for plunder. Only this avariciousness saved those in the road below the wagons from being exterminated. As it was, fifty of the Indians pursued us to the Monongahela and killed almost at every step. The regulars had thrown away arms, accouterments and clothing and, when overtaken, died stupidly like oxen.

The curt crack of the rifles on each side of the road marked the cool retreat of our provincials. They were fighting steadily and composedly, and their resistance discouraged a final onslaught that might have cost the life of every Englishman on the fort side of the river. We were within a few rods of the river, which was filled with frantic fugitives, when five of the pursuing savages closed in on Round Paw and me. I had the barrel of my rifle left and my ax. One man went down beneath the barrel. I slipped and fell on him. A knife stabbed through the calf of my left leg, but the man under me was dead.

"Yo-hah! Tell his ghost I sent you," yelled the Onondaga, and my assailant fell dead across me.

I got to my feet and beheld the Onondaga in the clutches of two savages, the fifth having passed on to overtake other victims. Before I could lend a hand one of my friend's assailants, an Ottawa, choked and went limp with Round Paw's knife through his throat.

"They say a brave man of the Wolf clan of the Onondaga will soon die!" panted Round Paw, and he essayed to sound his war-whoop as he and the remaining savage wound their arms about each other and fell.

paved them apart and raised my ax but the French Indian was dying by the time I could yank him clear of my friend. He was a Mingo, one of the Senecas who had preferred the Ohio to the Genesee.

"A brave man has killed me," he faintly said.

The Onondaga propped himself up on one elbow and feebly waved his ax, but his voice rang out so strong I did not believe he was seriously hurt. He proudly proclaimed:

"Yo-hah! A good fight! This man did me a very great honor. He fought well. But the Wolf has strong sharp teeth—Ha-hum-weh—Ha-hum-weh—Ha-hum-weh—"

And he dropped dead across the body of the dead man who had killed him.

I entered the river above the ford to escape the crowd of fugitives, some of whom were drowned in their mad haste to make the crossing. Busby, Cromit and Round Paw had paid the price of a stubborn man's ignorance. Of all those who would never return from the fatal errand I would miss the Onondaga the most; and after him Cromit of the mighty hands. And there was another ache in my heart as I envisioned the fair Josephine, waiting in old Alexandria for her lover to return. Out of twenty-nine gallant men to ride from the old town, only four were to go back.

My last backward glance at the ford beheld Colonel Washington's horse crumpling beneath him. At first I thought he, as well as his mount, was hit. But he was quickly up and catching a riderless horse and swinging into the saddle. Then, with his back to the ford, he rode through the trees, now vanishing, now appearing, and close in front of him was a fringe of his rifleman, fighting calmly and deliberately. This action of the rear-guard was made up of many individual duels. The Virginians' trick of having two men behind a tree inveigled many a screaming savage into the path of a deadly bullet. A rifleman would fire, when sure of his target, and some painted warriors would rush to dispatch him before he could reload. His companion would fire and check the charge. This was repeatedly done, and done as calmly and coolly as a man would work in curing his tobacco.

There was no pursuit beyond the ford, although only weariness, or their love of plunder, prevented them from killing us for many a long mile. Later the colonies learned that Dunbar's retreat was unexpected and the French hastened back to the fort, still believing they would be attacked. Those who had fled on horses were well on their way to the first crossing, or far beyond it.

I suppose it was the evening of that same day that I came to a stumbling halt at the edge of an opening and stared across a large cleared space. The spot was familiar, and with a shock I suddenly discovered it was on the Allegheny and about half a mile above Duquesne. I did not lose my wits again. From that moment on my memory is painfully exact.

Savages were singing and dancing around some stakes. I counted twelve of the stakes, and to each was fastened an inert charred figure. From the red coats and other trophies being displayed I knew the dead men had been regulars and that they had died by torture. I was glad they were through with all and were beyond all further misery.

I must have been very weak when I came to my senses on the edge of the clearing, for I could not have tasted food during my blind wanderings. The shock of the twelve stakes, however, gave me something that answered for physical strength, and I fell back rapidly from the dangerous neighborhood.

There were no Indians abroad in the forest, for none was willing to miss the feasting and drinking and torture, let alone the distribution of the rich booty. Moving painfully and without sighting any human being I came to the rough country at the head of Turtle creek and forded and gained the army's camp on Rush creek. It did not seem possible that seventy-odd hours before Braddock's army had halted here. That was far back among the old things, as the Indians would have expressed it.

Then by slow stages I followed the Braddock road back to the Great Meadows. All along the road were muskets and accouterments, discarded by those who had passed over the road ahead of me; and there was no need to be saving of powder and lead.

It did seem as if all the buzzards in North America had come to western Pennsylvania, and never have I seen bears so plentiful. There is a story based on the Monongahela battle to the effect that the bears grew to have a contempt for human beings after eating the dead of Braddock's army. I never placed credence in the story, but I can vouch that the brutes were not easily frightened by my approach. I shot several but depended upon rabbits, turkeys and a deer for food. More than once I had to fight my nerves before I could approach a huddled form in the road ahead, fearing it might be the girl. Just beyond the Meadows I came upon three men cooking deer-meat over a little fire. They were wild-looking creatures and at my approach sprang up and snatched for their guns.

"Have any of you seen a wagoner on a horse, Dan Morgan by name?" I called to them. "And was he riding double with a fellow younger than he?"

"Devil take your man Morgan and 'other feller!" cried one of them. "Git out of sight afore I lose my patience. I promised my youngsters a French scalp. By the Eternal! Your hair might do just as well! Fat crops in and growing, and now we must quit 'em and fort ourselves. Curse the day we ever heard the name of Braddock."

"We'll do our own fighting in our own way next time," bawled one of the other men.

His words fell idly on my ears yet I was to live to recall them, and to realize the fellow had unwittingly uttered the one great truth that the battle of the Monongahela taught us—self-dependence. From the beginning of the colonies, we had relied on England, and now that the best she could give us for our protection had miserably failed, we were to learn self-reliance, and the few long rifles that allowed a fragment of the army to escape across the second ford were in my day to increase to thousands. But that knowledge was all ahead of me; and disheartened at not finding some trace of Morgan and the Dinwiddie girl I left the sullen trio and continued my weary journey.

Petition to Heaven Out of the Ordinary

"Bob" Edwards, a Canadian member of parliament, who founded a little paper called the Calgary Eye Opener among the Northwest Mounted Police, about a quarter of a century ago, composed at the time a little prayer, perhaps in emulation of that of Robert Louis Stevenson.

Quoth Bob: "Lord, let me keep a straight way in the path of honor—and a straight face in the presence of solemn asses."

"Let me not truckle to the high, nor bulldoze the low; let me frolic with the jack and the joker and win the game."

HATS STRIKINGLY ORIGINAL; FROCKS OF NOVELTY WOOLEN

FROM color to contour this season's millinery, especially the new straws, are nothing less than stunning. At last the bondage of sameness has been broken. Not this summer will every hat look like every other hat. In fact, what with huge brims, medium brims, little brims and no brims at all, it becomes quite a bewildering yet most pleasing experience to choose one's headgear.

For every costume type the milliner creates a suitable hat. The trio of models pictured define three distinctly of Twentieth century genius with the result that many of the modern weaves have been rendered as delightfully yearable in the summer months as during any other time of the year. So it is that a considerable part of fashion's program for the immediate month revolves about diaphanous woools such as are sure to prove a lure to every fashion-loving woman.

So far has progress been made in point of airiness and daintiness, some of the very newest wooleens are truly lace in their weave. Frocks of different silhouettes, varying from the snug cap-toque to brims of intriguing novelty and appreciable width.

Plaid straw woven in multi-colors is having a decided vogue in Paris and American women also are showing a keen interest in these novelty effects. Cerise dominates in the shapely little fancy straw toque or cap, as you choose to call it, shown at the top in the illustration.

In the fetching bakou straw centered to the right one foresees a promise of an era of picturesque brims. This model accents the long-at-one-side brim which rolls up gracefully at the opposite side. Its trimming of velvet ribbon is at once effective and in keeping with the latest dictates of the mode.

The very attractive model pictured last suggests the Dutch bonnet brim. These pointed-at-the-side flares occur repeatedly in the new shapes. A modernized drape gives the brim as here shown an added touch of chic. The intricate treatment as here indicated is characteristic of the general trend in millinery designing. Then, too, the fact that the black-and-white theme is adopted in the fashioning of this modish hat is also noteworthy in that black and white combinations are again keenly challenging the supremacy of bright colors.

With so great a variety of new types as is included in recent millinery collections, it follows that the scope of the summer hat wardrobe will necessarily have to be extended. Especially is this so since the mode calls in each instance for the hat to show relation to the costume with which it is worn.

For a fashionable clientele, milliners make it a point to design hats strictly of a sports character, also these woollen laces are tremendously chic and as yet distinctly exclusive.

In matter of patterning there is a merry war going on in the realm of modern wooleens, as also among other fabrics, between stripes, plaids, checks and lots. Sometimes the plaids win, again the checks or dots while in the case of the swaggy daytime frock in the picture stripes come out victorious. The stripes in this sheer material, which is part rayon and part wool, as so many of the choicest weaves are this season, exploit the very genteel color combination of black and gray. A costume such as this will be found ideal for general wear.

Among the many delightful thin wooleens exploited this season one of the most indorsed is wool georgette. Ensembles of this sheer woollen are especially desirable, for, while they present a trim tailored effect, they are cool enough for summer wear. These very attractive dainty wooleens come not only in smart solid colors but they are also obtainable in stripes, also small almost invisible check patterns. A very new woollen material—just the thing for the making of the blouse to semi-sports effects, likewise tailored models for smart town wear. To which add varied formal types of millinery which this season especially show an inclination to take on more trimming and display captivating feminine touches beyond those of recent years.

Ultra-smart are the new zephyr-weight wooleens. Everywhere in the realm of fashion style leaders are expressing enthusiasm for wooleens of the newer sort, many of which are that sheer and dainty no one would think of even remotely associating them with the woollen "has-beens" of the long ago.

In this day of miracles, wooleens have been touched by the magic wand to accompany the wool-georgette ensemble—is so fine and thin it quite resembles shantung. It is especially smart in the new eggshell tint.

One kind of woollen weave for the frock with a woollen of entirely different character, yet related in color, adds zest to this season's fabric vogue, such as a gray tweed coat flecked with violet with a violet georgette frock.

Increasing interest is also shown for printed wool challis, with emphasis on bordered patterns. The border, in fact, is making a definite place for itself in wool fabric design, the narrower trimming bands being best liked.

When it looks like all is up,
Keep a-go-in!

Keep a-go-in!

Hear the bells that sweetly ring,
When you feel like singin' sing—
Keep a-go-in!

THIS AND THAT

According to an account in a recent confectioner's trade journal, molasses candy was first given away, not sold. A thrifty New York baker, nearly a century ago, disliking to throw away the good but sticky sweetness collected in the bottom of his brown sugar barrels, boiled it down and pulled it until it became taffy.

He did not think it possible to sell such a humble concoction, so he gave a stick of it away with each loaf of bread. To his surprise the demand for the candy outgrew the demand for bread, and he decided to charge for it. And so molasses candy came on the market.

"It is still a prime favorite with many and is especially good for children," says Doctor Bundesen of Chicago. "Tell every mother that the best way to develop a fine set of teeth is to let the child chew something rough and coarse. Molasses candy in small quantities after a meal will exercise and massage the teeth and gums as will other of the hard, old-fashioned candies."

Scrambled Eggs With Green Peppers.—Simmer two tablespoonfuls of chopped green pepper in a tablespoonful of butter for five minutes, then add four slightly beaten eggs, season to taste and cook until dry. Heat one-half cupful of tomato soup and pour over the eggs just before serving.

Baked Ham With Pineapple Rings.—Bake a thick slice of the center cut of ham in any desired manner. Brown a half dozen slices of pineapple in a few tablespoonfuls of the ham liquor and serve as a garnish around the ham.

Tomato Rarebit.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, and when brown add two cupfuls of strained tomato or tomato soup. Stir until boiling, add paprika, one cupful of sauerkraut and one cupful of cheese. Beat in the cheese and let stand until the cheese is well melted. Pour over triangles of toast.

Egyptian Salad.—Flake one can of salmon and mix with one cupful of diced celery. Mix with boiled salad dressing. Place lettuce on salad plates, heap on some of the salmon, press lightly into the sides of the pyramid of salmon a dozen stuffed olives. Garnish with two or three ripe tomatoes, slice and serve with a ball of cottage cheese on each.

Good Things.

Here is a nice dish to serve for those who enjoy a meal of liver:

Spaghetti With Liver.—Brown one cupful of cubed calf's liver in two tablespoonfuls of sweet fat, season well with salt, pepper a little chopped onion and cook for ten minutes; add one-half cupful of tomato pulp, three cupfuls of boiling water add one teaspoonful of minced parsley and cook for twenty minutes. Cook one-half cupful of spaghetti in salted water until tender. Drain, and place on a platter. Pour over it the liver mixture, sprinkle with cheese and serve.

Sautéed Tomatoes.—Tomatoes that are not fully ripe but well developed make a fine vegetable to serve with meats. Cut into thick slices and fry in sweet fat, sprinkle with a bit of flour to brown. Serve around the platter of meat.

Pineapple Skillet Cake.—Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter in a frying pan, add one cupful of brown sugar; when the sugar is melted add a can of sliced pineapple; arrange the drained pineapple over the caramel. Cover with the following: Beat four eggs, add two tablespoonfuls of water and one cupful of sugar, one cupful of flour sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Place in the oven to bake. When brown turn upside down and serve with whipped cream.

Hashed Brown Potatoes.—Chop six boiled potatoes fine, season with salt and pepper. Wash and chop three green peppers. Mix with the potatoes, add an eighth of an inch of melted fat to the frying pan and turn in the vegetables. Cook slowly, stirring occasionally. When partly brown fold into an omelet shape and fry a rich brown. Turn out on a platter, keeping the shape and garnish with parsley.

Ham Fillets.—Cut a thick slice of ham into strips one inch wide; let stand in cold milk two or three hours. Drain, dip into egg and fine crumbs and cook in ham fat until well brown on all sides.

Add a little chopped onion to scrambled eggs by cooking it first in the butter, then adding eggs and milk. Serve as a sandwich filling when one wishes a hot sandwich. Season well with salt and pepper. It makes a most appetizing sandwich.

WHAT DR. CALDWELL
LEARNED IN 47
YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly.

Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

Saved Trouble

"Sir, I want to marry your daughter," said the young man.
"Well, you are lucky, young man," said the father, "since her mother made up her mind some time ago you were going to, whether you wanted to or not."

Luck—something most men get in large quantities, but of the wrong kind.

Rapp-Wrap Wax Food Wrapper is such a heavy fine quality that it should not be confused with what is generally termed "wax paper" (the thin tissue grade) as that quality paper is wholly unfit for the many uses suggested below:

USES OF RAPP-WRAP WAX PAPER—Because of its quality we recommend [without reservation] its use as follows:

IN THE KITCHEN

FOR wrapping all moist food products such as cheese, cold cuts of meat, lettuce, radishes, celery, cake, etc. For wrapping "smelly" foods like fish, onion or garlic flavored foods, cantaloupes, etc., to prevent contaminating other foods in the refrigerator.

For covering cut surfaces of cantaloupes, watermelons, grapefruit, etc., to prevent them drying out.

Used under the cover to insure Sealing of Steamed Puddings or breads.

For rolling or kneading dough. Wrapping Roasts or Fish during baking or Cut Cabbage to prevent drying.

We recommend thoroughly WRAPPING "left over" foods before placing into refrigerator to prevent refrigerator odors and to KEEP SAUCERS AND DISHES OUT OF THE FOOD CHAMBER. Merely covering food on a saucer or dish will not fully cover it as a rule.

For lining pie and cake tins to avoid the necessity of buttering them.

Pour candy on a sheet of Rapp-Wrap to cool. When cool cut candy into squares and wrap in it.

For hard boiled and deviled eggs and cold picnic lunches generally. (A roll of Rapp-Wrap should be taken to the picnic so that "left over" foods may be wrapped for the return trip).

For use under jelly glass, horseradish, mustard and other jar lids.

For everything and anything in the food line to keep it wholesome and sanitary until used.

Rapp-Wrap is especially useful on the FARM where milk crocks, milk bottles, butter and dairy products are handled. These items of food are particularly susceptible to spoilage and contamination.

IN THE DINING ROOM

For use under the server's and baby's plates to keep the table cloth spotless. For wrapping silver to keep from tarnishing. For wrapping foods left from the meal before placing into refrigerator.

IN THE LIVING ROOM OR PARLOR

Cover highly polished table surface (under scarf before putting lamp, vases and other heavy articles on them). The wax used in Rapp-Wrap will keep these surfaces "waxed" and free from cracking.

IN THE BEDROOM

Rapp-Wrap is especially useful for discarding infants wear. Handkerchiefs used by sick patients or those having colds should be well wrapped to prevent spreading of disease. Other uses will suggest themselves here.

IN THE BATHROOM

Wrap toilet accessories, especially soap, wash cloth, shaving brush, etc. when traveling. "Smooth" a curling iron by simply clamping a piece of Rapp-Wrap after the iron is hot.

IN THE LAUNDRY

An electric iron or mangle, when warm, will take the wax off of Rapp-Wrap and keep the ironing surfaces in perfect condition.

MISCELLANEOUS

Wrap thoroughly all tools and fine instruments to prevent rusting. Cut flowers when sprinkled with water and properly wrapped with Rapp-Wrap will remain fresh for many hours. A piece of Rapp-Wrap on the bottom of birds cage will keep it clean. Many other general uses will suggest themselves to you for this wonderful product.

IMPORTANT:—To keep Baby's bottle, nipples, and cooked cereals sanitary and away from dust and flies—we recommend wrapping fully after use and placing into refrigerator. ¶ Women generally do not understand the use of a product such as Rapp-Wrap, therefore we suggest if you like it that you recommend it to your friends and neighbors. Better still, use it for Showers, Christmas and Birthday Gifts. Bridge, Five Hundred and Bunco parties, Church Bazaars and Women's Clubs can make good use of Rapp-Wrap for prize and money making purposes.

Convenience of Wall Cabinet

"Instructions for mounting Cabinet are shown on label of the roll. Cabinet should be fastened to a wooden surface in a convenient place. TACKS FOR INSTALLING ARE FURNISHED—be sure to ask for them. They are especially designed to prevent marring woodwork.

The above illustration shows cabinet mounted ready for use. It may be mounted on top of refrigerator lying flat if preferred.

Simply withdraw desired length from roll. Tear UP AGAINST cutter edge, leaving balance of roll in the Sanitary Cabinet, away from dust and dirt.

Ordinary sheet wax paper soon becomes disarranged in the drawer, unprotected from dust and germs and waste necessarily follows—Moreover the Cabinet permits taking just what is wanted from a continuous roll which means ECONOMY."

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWAT, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for My 12
THE EARLY MINISTRY OF JEREMIAH

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 1:6-10; 26:1-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—We must obey God rather than men.
PRIMARY TOPIC—King David Things for God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Doing Good Things for God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Taking a Stand for God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Fidelity in the Face of Difficulties.

1. Jeremiah's Call (1:10).
1. It was prenatal (vv. 4, 5). Before Jeremiah was born, God ordained him a prophet.
2. His diffidence (v. 6). This seems to have grown out of his youth and inexperience.
3. His hesitancy overcome (vv. 7, 8).

God graciously appeared unto him and made clear that he should (1) Go where sent. (2) Speak as commanded. (3) Be unafraid of their faces. The servant of God is called upon to face strong enemies. (4) Be assured of the divine presence.

4. The divine message given (v. 9). Not merely the thoughts, but the proper words to express the thoughts, were put into the prophet's mouth.

5. Nature of his ministry (v. 10). It was to be wider than that of prophesying. Six words are given as descriptive thereof. The first four are destructive in their application—"root out," "pull down," "destroy," and "throw down"; two constructive, "build," and "plant."

11. Jeremiah's Grief (21, cf. 6:10). The unbelief of the people made him feel that his efforts were fruitless. Seeing so clearly the awful doom which awaited his people and nation, and their willful opposition, he wept sorely.

12. Jeremiah's Prophecy in the Temple Court (23:1-24).

1. Jeremiah's solemn warning to Judah (vv. 1-7).

The Lord commanded him to stand in a conspicuous place in the temple and proclaim the judgment which was about to fall upon them because of their sins. The object was to move them to repentance (v. 3). If they would not repent, God would make the temple as Shiloh (v. 6). Just as Shiloh was once the dwelling place of the Lord and now fallen into decay and abandoned, so would it be with the temple.

2. Jeremiah on trial (w. 8-11).

(1) Cause of arrest (v. 8). It was for faithfully speaking at that the Lord had commanded.

(2) The charge (vv. 8-9). Thou shalt surely die. They charged him with a capital crime. According to this charge his guilt was twofold: a. Pretending to speak for God. b. Speaking against the temple and the city. According to this charge he was guilty of blasphemy and sacrilege. The one who prophesied without God's command was to be punished by death (Deut. 18:20). Blasphemy was also punishable by death. (Lev. 24:16).

(3) The princes sit in judgment (vv. 10, 11). Matters of state were not entirely in the hands of the priests and elders, but were in part controlled by members of the royal family.

3. Jeremiah's defense (v. 12-15).

Threats of death did not deter him from preaching, but only made him repeat his message with clearness.

(1) Reiterates his divine commission (v. 12). He plainly told them that he was God's messenger and in opposing him they were opposing God.

(2) His exhortation (v. 13). He urged them to amend their ways and obey God and thus turn aside the divine judgment.

(3) He gave himself up (v. 14). He did not resist the powers of government (Rom. 13:1).

(4) Warns of fatal consequences (v. 15). He told them that God had sent him and that if they killed him they would be guilty of defying God.

4. Jeremiah saved (vv. 16-24).

(1) The judgment of the princes (v. 16). They found him "not guilty."

(2) The speech of the elders (vv. 17-23).

The elders pled for Jeremiah and adduced two cases in illustration: a. Micah (vv. 18, 19). Micah had prophesied against Jerusalem, but King Hezekiah instead of putting him to death, repented, and thus turned aside the punishment which was impending.

b. Urijah (vv. 20-23). Urijah prophesied against the city and the land and thus incurred the wrath of Jehoiakim, who even brought him back from Egypt and slew him.

(3) Rescued by Ahikam (v. 24). Ahikam must have been a man of influence, to be able to interfere.

Faith

Faith is not blind acceptance of absurdity. Faith is the completion of a transaction in which we commit ourselves to a personal relationship with an unseen and living Master. Faith is such an adventure as every sailor makes when he sets out for an unseen port. Faith is our response to our yearning for the God who has made us for fellowship with himself. Faith is the answer of the vibrant human spirit to the music of Eternity.—Ozora S. Davis.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

WORKS HARD IN THE FIELD

Relies Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rankin, Illinois.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a tonic before and after my first child was born six years ago. Then when my second child came and I felt weak and run-down, I took it again. I am still taking it and I am feeling better. My mother used it for herself when I was small and always got good results. She still takes it. I do all kinds of heavy work, including my housework and I also help in the field. I recommend the Vegetable Compound and will gladly do so at any time. I am willing to answer any letters asking about this medicine."—Miss BEN. ORENLAND, Route 2, Rankin, Ill.

TINLEY PARK

BACHELORS GROVE
LUTHERAN CHURCH
Wm. Greve, Pastor.

English services will be held next Sunday at 9:30 a. m. Topic of sermon: "The glorious ascension of our Lord."

ENTERTAINMENT REPEATED

The Y. P. S. of Bachelors Grove Lutheran church will repeat its recent entertainment on Friday, May 24, at the Community Hall, Tinley Park. The play entitled "Such a Girl" was well liked and many expressed a desire to see it, who were debarred by weather and condition of roads the first time. Besides the play a dialogue "Five o'clock Tea" and the minstrel act by the "Chocolate Drops" are also given.

Three new members, Ernie and Hilding Anderson and John Werth have been added to the Lions Club membership roll.

Police Magistrate Clyde Rice has had ten court cases since taking up his new office. These were chiefly speeding cases.

About 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning a demented negro who had escaped from the Oak Forest Infirmary was picked up on the streets of Tinley Park by Charles Sippel and Officer George Smith and later returned to Oak Forest.

Henry Goeb, our local baker attended the meeting of the Master Bakers of the South Side in Chicago, Wednesday.

The Lions Club will meet next Monday night. They were to have met last Monday night but on account of the village board meeting the same night the Lions meeting had to be delayed for a week.

The Lions meet the 2nd and 4th Monday of each month.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Arnold celebrated their silver wedding anniversary last Saturday night. They rented the community hall, over 70 guests being present. All enjoyed a delightful time and the honored couple received many beautiful gifts.

Remember the big Pentecost dance at Saenger Hall, May 20th.

The Lions Club has the house numbering program of Tinley Park under way and will soon begin the work of numbering the houses.

New families are still moving into the Elmore subdivision each week. It is estimated that between 75 and 100 new families will be here by fall.

There will be an election of drainage commissioners of Bremen Drainage District No. 4 at the Vogt Department store this Saturday afternoon for the purpose of electing two commissioners, one for 2 year term and one for a 3 year term.

The Tinley Park Vol. Fire Department has elected the following officers for the ensuing year.

Chief, Chas. Nielsen
Asst. Chief, H. F. Bruggemann
Secretary, Wm. Ricks
Treasurer, J. C. Andres

Fred Goebel who has served as secretary of this department for over 15 years thought he had served long enough and did not desire to run again. Wm. Funk was the first secretary of the fire department which was organized Nov. 13, 1901. Many of the first members are still members of the department.

Mr. Schultz of the Tinley Market and Grocery has been ill for several days, but is able to be on the job again.

Two Girls Live on Hot Water and Rice

Due to stomach trouble, Miss A. H. and sister lived on hot water and rice. Now they eat anything and feel fine, they say, since taking Adlerika.

Even the FIRST spoonful of Adlerika relieves gas on the stomach and removes astonishing amounts of old waste matter from the system. Makes you enjoy your meals and sleep better. No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. Leading druggists, in Tinley Park, by H. C. Vogt, Druggist.

New Drainage Ditch, Benefit

The new drainage ditch which is being dug along the Wabash rail road from Alpine to Marley is going to be a great help to farms in that locality as the big swamps are being drained and much valuable farm land is being reclaimed. It is understood this drainage is to be extended to Worth.

The Double Cross

By

A. E. THOMAS

As may be expected from the pen of a successful writer of plays, "The Double Cross" is packed with drama, action and illuminative dialogue. The author of "The Champion," "The Rainbow," etc., brings his talents to bear on another fine story—in this case of American business and social life.
